PERFORMANCE REPORTING

The Performance reporting will be conducted annually, encompassing a comprehensive review of compliance with labor rights regulations, the impact and reach of employee well-being initiatives, and the effectiveness of training and development programs. It will provide an in-depth analysis of grievance resolution processes, results from human rights impact assessments, and advancements in ethical supply chain practices. Additionally, the report will evaluate employee engagement and satisfaction metrics, alongside the efficacy and reach of compliance training programs.

REVIEW MECHANISM

The Employee Rights and Well-Being Policy will undergo an annual review conducted by the HR Manager to ensure it meets compliance and transparency standards. The review will include a thorough analysis of policy implementation, effectiveness, and any emerging issues or trends. Additionally, stakeholder feedback will be incorporated to refine the policy, with final updates.
